

Sananda

I have placed my almighty heart, my loving heart in the center of this circle. I invite you to connect yourself to this loving heart. I invite you to connect yourself to this heart, to your heart that we form in this moment. I am the living Christ, I am the one you call Joshua, Jesus. I have been given many names, is that important? No.

What is important, my children? You have heard earlier the words that life and consciousness formed only a single unity (this is a reference to a passage from the letters of Christ - Letter No. 1). And who are you, children of the Source, Children of the Great Life in action in this dimension, children of the Almighty Love?

Today I, your brother, invite you to consider yourself as living particles, aware of the great Life in action. Together we are an entirety. We are a living consciousness in action in this world. You are part of the Consciousness One, each one of you. Today I, your brother, invite you to cross the door of reunification and unity. I invite you to consider yourself as an active agent of the Great Life in action in this dimension. An active agent of pure love! See yourself, each of you, as elements that are part of a whole. In this life, which we have prepared together for thousands of lives, a great opportunity is presented to you, the opportunity to cross the veil of separation to return in unity to the Consciousness One.

This Consciousness One is everything you can contemplate around you and within you. There is no separation. Your dreams and your imagination are real and they create. What surrounds you is a creation, it is your creation.

Now I invite you to breathe deeply. You breathe in the truth of this energy. You still see yourself as separate elements, walking on the surface of this planet. I, your brother, tell you that you are not separated from this planet, you are not separated from the kingdoms that share this planet. You form a unity. You represent cells of Love that move on the surface of this planet to spread love, to transform this world into a world of Love.

I, the living Christ, return in this dimension, in that life, in all the elements. I am present in the trees, in the crystals, in the heart of every human to restore order, to restore Love in this dimension. From today forward, my dear children, I invite you to view yourself as conscious, alive and active agents of my presence in this world. With all that you are, each of you represents my heart in action living in this dimension. So I ask you to take all you imagine you should be to become my enlightened consciousness and put it in the trash.

Today I invite you to accept me, the Almighty, the Great Life, already in action in each of you, as part of you, as a non-separate element of the Great All because this is the Truth. This is what humans do not want to accept in their heart. I urge you to reject this illusion that you are not spiritual, you are not luminous, because you believe that you are not love. I tell you: it is Love that created you, it is Love that maintains Life in you, it is Love that is expressed through each one of you, now.

Today we open a large door, that of Unity. I invite you to cross its threshold. You and I form only one consciousness; I, the Life in action who comes to regain control of this dimension; who comes to restore order with Love, Respect and Harmony. How? By using each of you, by living in each of you; by spreading my energy through each of you, in each of you, around you and within you in this dimension. We are already at work all together. As a single Consciousness we spread Peace, we spread Love, we transform the collective unconscious. We are ONE.

So are you my equals? You are Me and I am you. Are we equal since we are One? Being One, we cannot compare ourselves, we cannot detach ourselves from each other because we are One. Truly and forever, we are ONE.

2,000 years ago, I infused this truth in each of your hearts. You have carried it from life to life so that today you can make it grow, live it, believe it and demonstrate it. I, the living Christ, invite you today to accept this truth in each of you, to make it grow, to feel it so that you live it.

All you have imagined about being enlightened, aware of my presence in you; all that I could represent for you; put it all that in the trash because you already represent me, we already are One, I already work in each of you, by each of you, for each of you, to transform this world.

In this crucial year for this humanity, I urge you to accept another truth. So far, I have pushed you towards your destiny, I have guided you with love to what you are now. What you are experiencing, this energy you are radiating -that you have built from life to life-, this energy of love, hope, freedom, harmony, you are all that. In this year 2016, we start another phase of expansion of my consciousness in this dimension, my consciousness One in each of you in this world. From this year forward, I invite you to become the Creator of your Life. I invite you to go into your heart to feel my essence so that you can manifest it among the children of men. As the apprentice creator of your life, I invite you to commit yourself to discover what you came to create, reflect and manifest in this world. Start creating this energy that you have come to share with your brothers and sisters of the Earth.

Powerful energies are poured into the heart of all my children of the earth to make you realize how powerful you are; and that this power is at your service and you can use it to create and manifest your dreams, manifest your life, the one that was placed by the heart of the Almighty at the very beginning when you were created from his Loving Heart.

In this year 2016, learning of Creation begins and these words are addressed to each of you. Forget your age, forget the condition of your physical body, forget all these limitations, these beliefs that have enslaved you to this day. From now on, you are the powerful tool of my creation in this world. You are the powerful tool of Christ manifested in this world. All is possible for you. I invite you to accept this truth so that it can make you grow, guide you toward yourself and show you what you came to manifest in this world.

Creator of my love, all-powerful Creator that each of you is, I ask you to stand up internally, to stand up to welcome this truth. I ask you to open yourself to your Life, to begin the adventure of your personal and individual creation. This is what life expects from each one of you with love and kindness. The great Life, that I Am and that you are, is ready to create a new earth. The great Life in each one of us creates the new earth that you are.

I am Sananda, your brother, your Life. We are One in the eternal Love of the Source.

Thank you!
